HONORS DIVIDED BY EDISON AND BRYAN

Amid scenes so grotesque as to be almost beyond belief Henry Ford's peace ship Oscar II. backed out from its pier at Hoboken yesterday afternoon, bearing a strangely assorted company that has proclaimed that it will stop the war. The ship was scheduled to bear away toward expectant Europe at 2 o'clock. but a series of unusual happenings kept It at the pier until just thirteen minutes after 3. In the hour's wait the crowd of fully 12,000 that jammed the Scandinavian-American Line dock and boiled FOR STRATA BENEATH over to the side streets cheered, wept, laughed and catcalled as Mr. Ford himself and one or another of his more or less celebrated passengers came to the entertain.

Through such confusion as scarcely be imagined William J. Bryan. Thomas A. ## SEA CALM. ALL WELL. LAST WORD FROM ARK

ABOARD PEACE SHIP OSCAR II., via vireless to Sea Gate, N. Y., Dec. 5. 12:20 A. M .- Henry Ford's peace liner passed off Sandy Hook in the gathering dusk to-night, with all the peace advocates lining the rail for a last look at America.

Two of the peace advocates, Berton Braley, the poet, and Mrs. Braley or perhaps Miss Marion Rubincam -stood disconsolately on the poride of the Oscar II., trying to learn whether they were really man and wife, or whether the marriage they regotiated in New Jersey with a New York marriage license was illegal in he eyes of the law.

Braley searched the ship for a law yer after dinner. If he cannot find ne who will approve the marriage the poet and his Philadelphia bride will be remarried by the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago, or by the aptain of the Oscar II.

After an unsuccessful canvass for egal advice, Braley put the matter to vote, appealing to the other peace lgrims. Without a dissenting balat they declared the marriage cerenony to be legal, and Braley and his ride abandoned plans for a repetion of the ceremony.

Ford told the phalanx of newspaper en with him to-night that he was highly pleased at the sendoff accorded the ship.

Treasury Balance Low.

That the Administration is worried ever the outlook for the coming session is apparent. At a time when Congress will be called on to make extraordinary appropriations the Treasury casa balance is at a low ebb, and in this respect things are growing worse rather than better. Notwithstanding the popular demand for preparedness expenditures it is a fact which everybody here is now obliged to concede that under the surface in Congress there is now a deep current of sentiment against large appropriations for the two military establishments.

This is notably true of the delegations from the Southern States, which form the backbone of the Democratic organizations in the two houses of Congress.
